Chorus

¹He who dwells in the shelter of the Most High
Will abide in the shadow of the Almighty.

V1

²I will say to the LORD, “My refuge
And my fort; my God I trust.”
³For he’ll save you from the fowler’s snare,
From the deadly pestilence.

⁴He will cover you with his pinions;
You’ll take refuge under his wings.
And his truth is a shield and buckler;
⁵You will never be afraid.

Not of terror that comes at nighttime,
Nor by day of the arrow’s flight.
⁶Not of plague that walks in darkness,
Nor disease that destroys when the sun is at its height.

Chorus

V2

⁷A thousand may fall beside you,
And ten thousand at your right.
It won’t come near to you; ⁸you will only look,
See the wicked repaid in your sight.

⁹For you made the LORD your refuge,
The Most High my dwelling place.
¹⁰No evil will come upon you.
Near your tent will come no plague.

¹¹For his angels he will command for you,
To guard you in all your ways.

¹²They will lift you up on their hands,
So that even a stone your foot will never graze.

Chorus

V3

¹³You will tread on the lion and adder,
Trample serpents, lions young.

¹⁴He has loved me, so I will save him,
Him exalt; for he knows my name.

¹⁵When he calls to me I will answer him;
In distress I am with him.

I will rescue him and honor him,

¹⁶Fill him up with long life, my salvation show to him.
